General Scott and Father Payne.

The Portland correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin in remarking upon the death of Gen. Scott, notices a couple of incidents in his life as related in his biography, one of which we republish:

The following incident occurred in the Black Hawk war in 1832. Scott reached the American forces under Gen. Atkinson, just after the battle of the Badaxe, at the confluence of the river of that name with the Mississippi. In this battle the Indians were defeated and soon after capitulated. After relating these circumstances, the autobiography gives the following account of an interview between Scott and a wounded volunteer, then confined to the hospital at Prairie du Chien, but long since and now a resident of Oregon, and known here as Father Payne:

"Inspecting the hospital at Fort Crawford, Prairie du Chien (Taylor's post), Scott was struck with the remarkably fine head of a tall volunteer, lying on his side, and seeking relief in a book. To the question, 'What have you there, my friend?' the wounded man pointed to the title page of Young's Night Thoughts. Scott sat down on the edge of the bunk, already interested, and learned this story:

"The reader's brother, Mr. Payne, was Black Hawk's first victim. Not in a spirit of revenge, but to protect the surviving frontier settlers, the wounded man had become a volunteer. Riding into the battle of the Badaxe, he passed an armed Indian boy, not more than in his fourteenth year, whom he might easily have sabred, but that he thought him a harmless child. The incipient warrior, however, fired and lodged a ball against the spine of the noble volunteer, who, though still suffering greatly, declared that he preferred his condition to the remorse he should have felt if he had killed the boy, believing him to be harmless."

Scott soothed the Christian hero, and took leave with moistened eyes.

The hero of this story, as I have suggested, I believe to be Father Payne, who emigrated to Oregon in, I think the year 1847. In the winter of 1850-1, I sat with him as a member of the Oregon Legislature from Yamhill, and heard him relate this adventure and the interview with Scott, substantially as told in the Autobiography. He still resides in Yamhill county, and although three score and twice ten, is hale and hearty. It will doubtless gratify the old man to learn that the hero of Lundy's Lane, and the conqueror of Mexico, had remembered the wounded volunteer of the Black Hawk war, and gives him a page in his memoirs.

DEATH OF THE LAST SURVIVOR OF THE WYOMING MASSACRE.—The death of Samuel Kennedy took place on May 11th, near York Springs, Adams county, Penn., in the 93d year of his age. He was the last survivor of the Wyoming massacre. His mother brought him away when five years old, in her flight from that inhuman slaughter. She, with her son Samuel, settled in Menallen township, then York, but now Adams county, where she resided until her death, surrounded by his children, grand and great grandchildren, a respected citizen, without an enemy, beloved by all who knew him. His father, John Kennedy, with his two brothers Samuel and Thomas, settled on the Wyoming settlement some time before its destruction by the Indians. Samuel was killed, and his wife and six children taken prisoners, and never heard of after the massacre; but John's wife and three children, the oldest being the boy Samuel, just deceased, after hiding in a wheat field, surrounded by Indians, all night, finally escaped. John was absent at the time, having gone to Penn's Valley to assist in guarding the people from the Indians. Two of his wife's brothers were killed in the massacre. The other Kennedy (Thomas) was a single man at the time, and was uninjured. The deceased was born the 6th December, 1773, in Northumberland county, Penn.

THE FROZEN MAMMOTH IN SIBERIA.—At a recent meeting of the Academy of Science a letter was received from M. De Baer, of St Petersburg, in reference to the mammoth, still covered with its skin and hair, which had been discovered in the frozen soil of Arctic Siberia. The discovery had been made in 1864 by a Samoyede in the environs of Tax Bay, the eastern branch of the gulf of Obi. The news duly reached St. Petersburg toward the end of 1865; but as the bodies of large animals will keep a long time in those regions, if they are not completely uncovered, and as this mammoth was still enclosed in the frozen soil, the Academy of St. Petersburg, has, with the aid of the Russian Government, sent M. Schmidt, a distinguished paleontologist, to examine the animal and its position in the locality. It is hoped Mr. Schmidt will arrive before the decomposition is too far advanced, and that a correct notice may be obtained of the outer appearance of the animal, and also, from the contents of the stomach, of its natural food. The prehistorical figure of the mammoth drawn on a piece of ivory, found in a cavern of Perigord by M. Lartet, will then admit of verification.

PARTICULARS OF THE VIRGINIA CITY FIRE.—The fire extended north on C street to Hampton & Ogden's fire-proof store, which, resisting the flames, saved the Music Hall adjoining. In Antion, Discalee & Co.'s building over $40,000 worth of Flour, etc., was destroyed. Friedenburg & Co.'s loss, next door, was very large. Scarcely anything was saved of the contents of any building burnt. Paul & Co.'s was the only fire-proof building; it was surrounded with the fire, but it resisted the heat; it has been opened and all was found safe. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s building was destroyed by neglecting to close the iron doors connecting it with Mallet's building. The fire was stopped at Black's boot store on C street, midway between Union street and Sutton Avenue.

The wind changed several times during the three hours of the fire, thereby baffling the efforts of the firemen, who, headed by our excellent Chief, R. C. Williams, really did wonders in their attempts to check the conflagration. Many of the old landmarks of 1860 were destroyed; Johnny Newman's "Old Stand" saloon, Bryan's stone octagon house, Atwill's old mining agency building, Ridley's old stone hotel, and many others, are all gone. The only fire bell of the city lies amid the ruins, after briefly sounding its own knell, as the engine house was the second building on fire. The fire was the work of incendiaries, without doubt.

Engine No. 1, whose house was destroyed, was found to be injured by some imp of rascality, the hose cut, etc. While the fire was raging, attempts were made to fire Mack's Merchant's Exchange Hotel, Lynch's Saloon, Taylor's building, Meilan's building, containing the Postoffice, U. S. Revenue office, the County, Tax, Recorder's and Treasurer's offices. Geary & Crozier's liquor store was saved by tearing down awnings, porches, etc. The Postoffice is in operation, as usual.—Bulletin.

AN OUTSPOKEN SOUTHERN JOURNAL.—There is one paper in Mississippi which utters its sentiments with remarkable candor, and as it expressly claims to speak "in the name of the Southern people, some of its remarks may be worth quotation. It is the Clarion, published in Jackson, the State Capital:

"We do not repent of the course which, four years ago, we entered upon; we leave it to posterity to say that we did right. Why Providence denied us success we know not now, but we shall know hereafter, and even now we watch with interest, from day to day, the unfolding of the Divine purposes concerning the country which he has decreed shall be one, though many wise and good men thought different. How singular the turn that affairs have taken, and how completely providential! The good-natured buffoon whom the good people of the North chose to place in the chair of Washington and Jackson, was removed when his mission was accomplished, and the hearts of Southern men, already depressed by the great misfortunes that was already upon them, sank deeper at the thought that a ruler was set over them whose little finger would be thicker than his predecessor's loins."

After some further congratulations as to the good results of Booth's deed, and praises of President Johnson, the Clarion peals forth as follows:

"If Southern men do not admire and applaud such a man as this it is because the God that made them has reconstructed them in a manner hitherto unheard of—taking away their old heart and giving them instead a heart of dirt. They are not the people to give a half-hearted approval, nor if they were, are these the times for it, or is Andrew Johnson the man to whom it is due."

The Louisville Journal defines patriotism, "I feel as though I'd like to shoot somebody or steal sumthin'." The copperheads are latterly extremely "patriotic" and withal noisy about another, swift coming revolution. Prentice's definitions must have been made to order to describe copperhead patriotism.

The Herald has not ventured to approve or assail the amendment to the United States Constitution, which will be submitted to our Legislature next September. Is it waiting for the Examiner to give it the cue?

President Johnson promised to make "treason odious." The copperheads say he has kept his pledges. He has in one sense, inasmuch as he has made his treason to his own pledges, extremely odious."

1866 and 1864.

Our cotemporary figures as follows:

FOR SUSTAINING THE PRESIDENT

The Democracy of the North	1,800,000
Conservative Republicans	400,000
Voters of Southern States	1,500,000
	3,700,000

FOR CONGRESS

Disunion Radicals	1,800,000
Majority for the President	1,900,000

Two years ago the figures stood about like this:

FOR JEFF. DAVIS AND THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY

The Democracy of the North	1,800,000
Exiles from the draft, rebel agents, assassins and sympathizers in Canada and elsewhere	200,000
Fighters and voters in the Southern States	1,600,000
	3,600,000

FOR LINCOLN, CONGRESS AND THE UNION

"Disunion Radicals"	2,250,000
Majority for the Confederacy	1,350,000

Instead of numbering 400,000, the "Conservative Republicans" are, probably, only about half so numerous. Give the "Disunion Radicals" half of those who are classed as "Conservatives," (and this undoubtedly is a fair computation) and the majority against them now will appear but a trifle greater than it was in 1864. Every man who was for Jeff. Davis then is for Johnson now, and nearly every man who was then for Lincoln and the Union, is now for Congress and against the policy that is trying to make treason respectable. Considering the weight and numbers of the combination they have to contend against, we think the "Disunion Radicals" are holding their ground very well.

[illegible] PAPER OF THE STATE

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 27, 1866

The Newly Opened Route to Montana

Mr. [illegible] Higgins, the builder of the steamboat which is now running on Pend d'Oreille Lake, arrived in [illegible] last evening. From him we learn [illegible] matters of interest relative to the prospects of the newly opened route from the [illegible] to the mines of Montana.

The steamer Mary Moody is now running daily from Hanes ferry to Cabinet, a distance of 70 miles. A large amount of merchandise has already passed by the Lake route to the mines. On [illegible] day Mr. Higgins left the landing, the [illegible] six heavily loaded pack trains arrived there. Trade is fast falling into that channel as the most natural and practicable one that has yet been opened.

At Cabinet there is a portage of seven miles over a good road. From thence to Thompson's falls, a distance of [illegible] miles, the river is well adapted to navigation. A steamboat is to be built immediately for service on that part of the river. The machinery for this boat has already reached Wallula and by this time has probably started from that point on the way to the Lake. Thompson's falls are eight or ten feet in height. At this place there is another portage of half a mile, with every facility for a road on either side of the river. From the falls the river affords easy navigation to the Jocko, a distance of 65 miles. A steamboat is also to be constructed immediately to run between those points. The two boats which are projected are to be built in time for the fall trade, and thus we shall be enabled to supply the Montana markets from this side at a later period in the season than the St. Louis merchants owing to the low stage of water in the Missouri can possibly do.

On the Pend d'Oreille Lake and Clarke's Fork, we get 120 miles of steamboat navigation. The use of this will be of incalculable advantage to Oregon. The road from the landing on the Columbia river to the Lake has no obstruction. Only slight acclivities are found here and there, which are no obstacle whatever. From the Jocko, the head of navigation on Clarke's Fork, to the mines the road is equally good. As a whole, this route is the most feasible one that has yet been, or probably will be, opened. The Mullan road in some places, is still almost impassable, and never can be relied on as a permanent thoroughfare.

We are glad to learn that the enterprise of the Pend d'Oreille route promises so well for this part of the country. It opens the gate of the mountains and admits us to a region where our merchandise and products will find a ready market at the best prices. The Columbia river will hereafter be the great highway for the Montana trade.

The Union Victory.

We notice that some of our exchanges in speaking of the Union victory in this State, call it a "Radical triumph," while others claim that it is an unqualified endorsement of the course of the President. Some of the Democratic journals of California are of this latter opinion, and the Chronicle of Victoria asserts the same thing. But these sanguine and anticipative gentlemen, it appears to us, are a little too fast. If a victory won on substantially the same principles as are embodied in the Constitutional Amendment which lately passed Congress, and which forms the basis of the Congressional plan of restoration, be a victory for the "Radicals," then the "Radicals" of Oregon have gained a great triumph. If the President's new-found friends choose to regard the result as a rebuke of the the President and a repudiation of his "policy," they are welcome to do so. We think men of candor will not claim that a victory achieved by a party which every man, publicly sustained the Civil Rights Bill, pronounced in unmistakable terms against the admission into Congress of those who have participated in the rebellion, and declared in favor of the punishment or disfranchisement of leading traitors, is a very brilliant victory for the President. The election of a Legislature which will return a thorough and tried Unionist to the United States Senate in the place of J. W. Nesmith, who now sustains Johnson's "policy" with quite as much ardor as he opposed Lincoln in 1864, is hardly to be called a Johnson victory. The Union party did not evade, or seek to evade any of the practical issues which were involved in the recent contest in this State. All the Union candidates, as well as the entire Union press, took position with Congress that further guarantees are to be given by the South before the forfeited rights of her people can be fully restored. President Johnson on the other hand stands opposed to requiring further conditions preparatory to full restoration. On this issue the contest was joined, and a considerable majority of the people of Oregon responded in favor of the doctrines enunciated and defended by the Union party. The victory was fairly gained after the severest contest ever known in this State. Whatever name any party or person may choose to call it by—whether Union or "Radical"—it is a victory for the Congressional plan of restoration, as will be evinced in September, when the Legislature ratifies the Constitutional Amendment, which is the groundwork of that plan.

STATE ITEMS.

Persons lately arrived from the east, state that a large immigration into Oregon may be expected the present season from Pennsylvania, Ohio and other Middle and Western States.

According to the Albany Journal, not less than five fire-proof brick buildings have been lately commenced in that town.

During the month of May the Oregon City Woolen Mills manufactured twenty four thousand yards of woolen goods, ready for market.

The Linn county Agricultural Association has surrendered its organization. It has bought and prepared the grounds for fairs and now turns everything over into the hands of the citizens of the county who are expected to sustain the enterprise.

Within the last five months five persons have died at Eugene City whose united ages were over four hundred years, the average being over eighty. The last was Geo. Belshaw, who died on the 15th inst., in his eighty-seventh year.

The Albany Journal says: "A little girl seven years old, daughter of Mr. M. Jessman, residing in this county, was bitten on the foot by a rattlesnake about two weeks ago. She has suffered extreme agony ever since, and we learn that the physicians attending have decided upon amputating her foot."

While in the service, the late Company "H," Captain Williams, had one man killed and two wounded by the Indians. The name of the man killed we do not know. The wounded were Griffin, of Lane Co., severely in the left thigh, and Thomas Smith of Linn Co., in the foot.

Rev. A. C. McDougall of Yreka, has been for some time in this State on business connected with the Order of Good Templars. He is now on his way home, lecturing on Temperance at the principal towns through which he passes.

There is to be a celebration of the 4th of July, on the Coast Fork of the Willamette, Lane county. Gen. E. L. Applegate will deliver the oration. A special invitation is extended to the soldiers who enlisted from that county.

The Eugene Journal says the late attempt of Messrs. [illegible] & Stevens to cross the Cascade mountains by the McKenzie trail with a drove of cattle, was a failure on account of the depth of snow.

Capt. Ingram's company K, Oregon infantry, was mustered out and paid off yesterday, (Monday,) at Vancouver.

On the 2[illegible]th, while the O. S. N. Co. at the Dalles were moving their wharf boat from their upper landing to the [illegible], it collided with some rear buildings belonging to Messrs. Brown & Bros., knocking them off their foundations into the river. No person was hurt.

About [illegible] a small boy and girl of Mr. [illegible] of the Dalles were playing on the wharf boat lying in the river at the foot of [illegible] street, [illegible] accidentally fell into the river. The little girl was [illegible] by the boy was drowned before assistance could reach him.

The O. S. N. Co. have lately put on their road at the Cascades a new locomotive—the "S. G. Reed." She was [illegible] up by engineer [illegible]. The trial trip took place on Monday, with the most satisfactory results, everything working admirably and [illegible].

The [illegible] Stage Company will commence carrying the [illegible] mails on Tuesday. The stages are making the trip [illegible] leaving the Dalles on [illegible] and [illegible]. The [illegible] making away to their fishing [illegible] comparative safety [illegible].

[illegible] arrived at Dalles on Friday [illegible] the latest from the Blackfoot [illegible] Mines. We learn from a correspondent that the [illegible] there are very jubilant over the flattering prospects. Judge [illegible] holds out to them. The miners [illegible] Dalles has had a tendency to [illegible] business and improvements.

A woolen mill [illegible] at the Dalles [illegible] reach $1,000. The company [illegible] will be organized immediately.

The British bark Nereseen arrived [illegible] yesterday from Liverpool in [illegible] days. This is the shortest trip made between the two ports in several years.

A resolution was unanimously adopted [illegible] of the City [illegible] Commandant [illegible] Rodgers [illegible] Commander [illegible] and the officers of the war steamer Vanderbilt and the Monadnock, and that the chambers of the Board [illegible] by them selected for the purpose of [illegible] of San Francisco, and that the Clerk be instructed to transmit a copy of the [illegible] to Commodore Rodgers. A resolution was also adopted inviting Commodore Rodgers [illegible] compatible with the public service and [illegible] to remain in this harbor the war steamers Vanderbilt and Monadnock until after the celebration of the ensuing anniversary of our nation's independence.

The following dispatch was received from Los Angeles late last night:

LOS ANGELES, June [illegible].—From Mr. F[illegible], who has just arrived from Hardy's Landing, Colorado river, we learn that Moses Little, of San Francisco, was killed at [illegible] Mine. The murder was committed with an axe, and the stroke cleft the head in twain. The other employees were absent at the time of the murder, and it is said Indians were the murderers. We also learn from Mr. Engle of the murder of another man near Marl Springs, which took place a few days previous to the killing of Moses Little. It seems Indians are really on the war path. They have approached to within about ten miles of our city and murdered two men. Particulars so far as known are as follows: Yesterday morning, Wm. McGuire and Moses [illegible] left [illegible] on horseback for the purpose of going to the [illegible] happened to be there. About three hours afterwards the horse of McGuire came back to the house with the saddle [illegible]. It was immediately suspected that foul play had been committed, and search was made on yesterday evening, but without success. This morning the horse of McGuire was [illegible] belonging to Dr. Griffin, the saddle being covered with blood. On the news arriving in town the sheriff and a posse went in search of the missing men. About [illegible] o'clock this evening the body of McGuire was found in Arroyo Seco. The body when found was laying face downward with one hand grasping his pistol from which one shot had been fired. The body was brought to town and a post mortem examination was made by Dr. S. Hayes and Griffin, when, from an arrow barb being taken out of the body and from the wound, it was revealed that the killing had been caused by an arrow entering the back below the shoulder blade and ranging downward. [illegible] body has not yet been found. Though from circumstances it is evident that both were killed by the Indians. As they did not capture the horses or take the pistol from McGuire, it is probable that they either got [illegible] or were frightened away by the supposition that other white men were near. McGuire leaves a wife and four children and numerous friends to mourn his loss.

The Markets

No later gold quotations. The Legal Tender market is unsettled and wavering. Brokers quote at 70¾ buying, and 71@71½ selling with limited sales.

The mining stock market presents [illegible] changes since the morning board yesterday. Yellow Jacket advanced $10 and Confidence $14 50. Ophir declined $10, Imperial $8, Belcher $[illegible] and Chollar Potosi $1.

There were sales of Legal Tenders at the board at 71 and Pacific Insurance Company at $1 80.

Arrived—brig Admiral 15 days from Seattle.

Sailed—June 26th, steamer Del Norte for Crescent City.

FROM MONTANA

A correspondent of the Montana Post writing from Fort Benton, May 9th, says:

The most exciting topic just at present is the murder of Little Dog, the head chief of the Pelgans, a good friend of the whites, and of his son, by a party of drunken Indians of his own tribe. The following particulars we obtained from the principal interpreter of the tribe. It appears that quite a number of the Pelgans were in and around the Fort on the 27th ult., their camp being, however, some sixty miles north-east from Benton. Having finished their business, they soon started for their wakiups, in small parties. Little Dog himself left only a few minutes before his son, who was the last of the party. On the road to the Marias river, at a place about three miles east from the Fort, the chief, who was on foot and accompanied by one of his squaws, was overtaken by a half breed named Isidore, who was on horseback and riding up asked to see the old man's revolver, which was at once complied with by Little Dog without any suspicion of danger. On receiving the weapon Isidore told the poor defenceless old man that as his party had whisky in a little ravine a short distance ahead of them, and as they were afraid of their Chief he would keep the pistol. Little Dog's remonstrances were unavailing, the half breed coolly riding off followed by Little Dog, whose squaw, more suspicious than her lord, recommended a hasty retreat to Benton.

The old man acquiesced, but fatally for himself, said he would get his pistol first, and instead of beating a hasty retreat to the Fort, followed the thief until he came up with the drunken and still carousing savages, and demanded his weapon. They told him that he had no need of it as they were going to kill him anyhow and without assigning any reason for so doing they all fired upon him killing him instantly. Not satisfied with simple assassination, they mutilated the dead body in the most horrible manner with butcher knives. The dead Chief's son hearing the firing and attributing it to some quarrel, ran up, and overtaking the squaw was told that the savages had killed his father. Being totally fearless of danger, the young warrior rushed up to the scene of the bloody debauch, and asked: "who killed my father?" These words were his last for another volley from the party stretched him lifeless beside the mangled remains of his father, and in a few seconds he was as savagely mutilated as the old Chieftain had previously been.

Four days after the massacre we have described a large number of Pelgans came to the Fort, and the next day, in council assembled with the acting Indian Agent Mr. Upham, expressed the deepest sorrow at the death of their Chief, and declared their continued friendliness to the whites. The most noted of the Chiefs, Big Lake, the Wolf, Big Nose, Mountain Chief, Heavy Runner, Bird Chief, Button, Thunder and Longhair, were pointed out to us in the group. These chiefs are known as most [illegible] among the mountaineers from their wearing the silver medals given them last fall. Mr. Upham expressed his own deep regret at the death of Little Dog and his son, and gave assurance of the amicable feeling of the whites towards the tribe.

A VIGILANT EXECUTION.

The Post also contains the following:

"No. 7. A colder perjurer, and one who tried to swear away the lives of innocent men, [illegible] caught at last. Only this, and nothing more, did the [illegible] the hangman's tree in Dry Gulch vouchsafe. [illegible] aloft on that same strong arm, swung by the twist of the rope, the body of John Crochet or Trochu, more familiarly known as "Frenchy." This man was about [illegible] years of age, came from the Boise country to Virginia City, representing himself as a good man, and worked into the good graces of many of the citizens. Soon after he came here, he was one of the night watch during a portion of last winter. His being found with his neck in a noose on the morning of the 7th inst. is supposed to be in some way connected with the following circumstances. On the night of the 2d instant "Frenchy" robbed Capt. John Rogers of some $700, while the latter was under the influence of liquor. He afterwards returned some $500, having spent the remainder in dissipation. He had been flourishing pistols and proving himself the bad man we find he had the reputation of being on the other side. He was lodged in jail awaiting his trial for assault and battery at the time he was taken by his executioners, the jail being forced by his captors."

ACCIDENTS.

A private letter from Bannack confirms the sad news that the eldest son and the third daughter of [illegible], the brewer and Collector of Internal Revenue, accidentally fell from the footbridge over Grasshopper Creek on the 1st ult., and were drowned. The bodies were found at the curve of the creek, opposite Peabody's corral. The melancholy event has cast a gloom over the whole neighborhood. On the same day a man named Ross [illegible] accidentally shot himself while pulling a [illegible] out of a wagon, by the muzzle.

FROM IDAHO

We clip the following news from the Mail of the 16th:

AN IDAHO MANUFACTURED QUARTZ MILL.

The [illegible] running, the first quartz mill [illegible] Idaho [illegible] Mr. [illegible] A. [illegible] City, who, with the assistance of [illegible] days [illegible] manufacturing [illegible] prospecting [illegible].

This mill was [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] California [illegible] the first quartz [illegible] worked by steam [illegible] will work twelve tons of quartz [illegible] every twenty four hours [illegible] four tons can be readily worked in the same space of time.

ARRIVAL OVERLAND—AN INDIAN RAID.

Our old friend Mr. R. [illegible] Harris [illegible] arrived here this week in company with [illegible], John Lemon, William Robinson and Mr. Billings, all from [illegible] and Idaho. They left Chico on the 6th of May and arrived at Ruby City in eighteen days, traveling via Humboldt [illegible]. They left Chico with 89 head of cattle. When [illegible] this side of the Summit Springs, the Indians made a raid upon them and drove off 12 head. Mr. Harris says they saw from 80 to 100 dead Chinamen lying along the road, where they had been slaughtered by the Indians.

Besides these a great many [illegible] have had been [illegible].

THE AMOUNTS [illegible]

Mr. S. O. Rosenbaum [illegible] has in his possession a [illegible] mill [illegible] arrangement [illegible] Rules [illegible] brought [illegible] 700 [illegible] three quarters of [illegible] The machinery arrived here about the first of May [illegible] commenced crushing [illegible] arrival. BIG ATLANTIC [illegible].

The Idaho County Assessor has been indicted [illegible]. The amount of [illegible] in May was $5,170; poll tax $1,800; hospital tax $440—making a total of $[illegible].

Several of the quartz ledges have lately [illegible] from New York [illegible] O. E. Whiting and D. Richardson.

The Fourth of July [illegible] celebrated [illegible] Idaho City by a grand ball at the City Hotel [illegible] the [illegible] Council.

A grand [illegible] ball is in contemplation here for the Fourth of July.

[illegible] AT BOISE CITY—THE EDITOR OF [illegible]

We learn from a gentleman just down from Idaho that the [illegible] of the Democracy of Idaho had a pretty general row in their [illegible] at Boise City on the 18th [illegible]. The row finally [illegible] a shooting spree, in which most of the [illegible] took a lively interest. Hiram [illegible] and Dr. Wm. D[illegible], formerly of Oregon [illegible] and the latter in a playful mood fired a revolver point blank at [illegible] in the next world by the [illegible] pocket book [illegible]. There [illegible] but at last no [illegible] all was quiet on the [illegible].

COMPLIMENTARY TO THE ANCHOR LINE.—A most agreeable meeting took place at the Hall of Multnomah Engine Company No. 2 last evening. It appears that the Company had made their arrangements for giving Capt. Kelly and his associates of the Anchor Line a pleasant entertainment on the occasion of bringing the new steam fire engine of that company. But as the steamer Montana would necessarily be at San Francisco on the Fourth of July, the day set apart for the ceremonies it was thought best to tender the generous commander and his associates a compliment last evening, which was accordingly done. Capt. Kelly was introduced to the company by Foreman A. B. Hallock in a most appropriate speech to which Gen. John McCraken, agent of the Anchor Line, responded, on behalf of Capt. Kelly. It would afford Capt. Kelly great pleasure to be with us on the approaching anniversary of our national Independence, which will be the first Fourth he has been able to spend in the United States for sixteen years but circumstances were such that it would be impossible. We have not space to devote to the full proceedings of the meeting last evening, but confess that we were greatly gratified with the speeches, the toasts and the "[illegible]." We have barely room for two sentiments offered, which are a fair specimen of the fire of the evening. The following was offered by Mr. E. A. Baum, and

To Captain Kelly and the Officers of the Steamship Montana.—May the "anchor" of generous liberality which he has dropped in the waters of good will here in Portland—particularly in this company—so firmly fix its flukes in the good holding ground of appreciation that the high pressure steam, double back action capstan of monopoly, shall never be able to loosen the hold.

The following was offered by Mr. J. E. Bentley, whose feelings participated in the proceedings, although he was unable to speak his own thoughts, or hear the expression of others present, being a deaf mute: "Jonathan Hornblower, the maker of the first steam engine in 1791. First steam fire engine made in Philadelphia in 1844. We are much pleased with our new steam fire engine."

Judge Lansing Stout made a few pertinent remarks, reviewing the course of the Portland Fire Department, and in gratitude of the occurrences which had thus called them together. He stated that the commander, and gentlemen interested in the Anchor line had exhibited such liberality toward this community which was quite different from the benevolence hitherto extended to us by persons in the same capacity, and he wished to see their conduct duly appreciated and endorsed by the public. At the close of Judge Stout's remarks our reporter was obliged to leave, and did so with regret that he could not report the proceedings more in detail. It was a very interesting occasion, and one likely to be long remembered by all who were present.

WOMEN AND WHISKEY.—We had supposed that the recent regulation of the retail whiskey business would do something to improve the morals of Portland, as the ordinance provides that a license shall not issue to any one until the person applying for the same should file a bond with the city Auditor, with two securities to be approved by the Mayor, in the penal sum of $500, conditioned that the applicant would "keep a quiet and orderly house, and not permit or suffer any illegal practices on the premises or suffer any female to be employed therein." But it seems there is no improvement. Night before last broken noses and bruised heads, and cuts in the ribs were of frequent occurrence. A woman named Lambert, whose husband is in the Penitentiary for burning and stealing, has been the keeper of a dead fall on the south west corner of Second and Yamhill streets for months. When the new law went into effect she failed to throw up the sponge, but has defiantly kept on with the business in which she was engaged, assisted by another woman. Notwithstanding she has been punished both by fines and imprisonment. On Monday night, at this dead fall, a man named Williams, a boiler maker, was stabbed in the left side, about an inch below the ribs, the orifice being about 1½ inches in size and the knife entered the stomach. He was conscious yesterday, but the attending physician, Dr. Watkins, thinks it doubtful about his recovery. The person inflicting the wound was a brick maker named Edward Mitchell. The row occurred about 11 45 P. M., and was about a woman and was very probably stimulated with whiskey. Mitchell, it appears had been working for Mr. Hartness of the Pioneer Brick Yard, and Mr. H. had given him an order on Messrs. Couch & Flanders for money which coming to the notice of officer Brannan, led to the arrest of the man as he applied to those gentlemen for his pay. He was lodged in jail to await an examination to-day before Judge Hoffman. The Montana saloon proprietors gave a "grand ball" the same evening, and a few hours after the affair at Mrs. Lambert's an other John Williams, a Robert Williams and John Morris and Oliver Hays there engaged in a free fight, resulting in black eyes broken heads, etc. Their cases were attended to before Judge Hoffman last evening, and treated as their respective merits deserved.

P. S.—Since the above was placed in type we have visited the room of Mr. Williams, and found that he expired at 9:15, P. M., from the effects of the wound inflicted by Mitchell. He will be buried today by the Odd Fellows, of which fraternity he was a member.

EXPORTS.—The steamship Montana, Capt. J. R. Kelly and the steamship Oriflamme, Capt. Francis Connor leave this port at 8 o'clock this morning for San Francisco, with cargo as follows:

Per str. Montana—10 case merchandise, 20 cases hams, 3,461 qr sks flour, 13 bales wool, 5 bales leather, 5 bbls brandy, 730 bbls salmon, 3 half do, 13 bbls pitch, 11 cases varnish, 4,276 lbs old copper, 28 boxes eggs, 3,000 staves from the [illegible], Barrel Factory and 105 half barrels, and 73 barrel hoofs and 7 800 hoofs.

Per str Oriflamme—97 bales wool, [illegible] pkgs [illegible], 328 pkgs dried fruit, 4 pkgs skins, [illegible] kegs, 25 boxes eggs, 7,084 sks flour, [illegible] bacon, 4 pkgs tallow, 20 bales hay, [illegible] pkgs [illegible] hides.

REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES.—It will be seen by reference to the advertisement elsewhere appearing this morning, that B. M. DuRell & Co. have made a very liberal reduction in the rates of freighting by their fast line from Umatilla to the principal towns of Idaho. Passage has also been greatly reduced. Passengers can now go through from Portland on a ticket in from four to five days, to Boise City, Idaho City, Ruby or Silver City and travel but three days by stage.

TREASURE.—The steamship Oriflamme leaving this morning for San Francisco takes $105,030 in treasure shipped by parties as follows:

Wells, Fargo & Co	$ [illegible] 000
Ladd & Tilton	30 000

[illegible] habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c. deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure [illegible] Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

STEAM POWER NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he hears increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive not only after a trial [illegible] only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of HEALTH, But how? you ask.
We answer: 'tis an easy task.
Strength the STOMACH, and sustain
The NERVES, the servants of the brain.
The LIVER keep it active; [illegible]
And regulate from day to day
Each organ old in Nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the INNER MAN.
And like a watch that's kept to chime
Its constant care with railroad time.
The system tone and strength renew
And thereby cheer the spirits too.
How will you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, we reply,
Is HEALTH'S SUPREME PREVENTIVE—TRY IT!

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, and raising the tone of the [illegible] drooping life, no medicine and no preparation either of the past or the present time is so generally and universally successful as

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul [illegible]
That fever taint the heavy air,
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairie woods or marshy ground.
Ill sedentary toil [illegible]
Nature you must assist [illegible]
For when debarred from exercise
For artificial aid she cries,
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent.
And if you'd be relieved or spared
You must the antidote prepared,
Hostetter's Bitters use, [illegible]
They are the BEST ANTIDOTE.

To [illegible] the influence of unhealthy soils, the poison of unwholesome water, the effluvia of crowded work rooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only necessary to be forearmed with

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body and depress the mind,
Agues, that as they go and come
Make life a constant martyrdom,
Colics and dysenteric pains
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes,
Bilious complaints, those fell ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills,
Dread diarrhoea that cannot be
Cured by destructive mercury;
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death nearer, day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom—
Heralds of madness or the tomb;
For these—though mineral nostrums fail—
Means of Relief at least we hail
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS—medicine sure,
Not to prevent alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, constipation, sea-sickness, spasms, and in all complaints of Man or Woman proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the one great remedy and restorative is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land
From Polar shore to Tropic strand
To households here, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities too,
To soldiers in camp, fort and field
Who need against disease a shield,
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground,
To feeble wives of fragile mould,
To young and middle aged, and old,
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless, weak and pale
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we present
As Health's most potent element.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and safest Tonic, Corrective and Alterative now before the world is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

A Dollar in His Pouch

BY MILES O'REILLY

'Tis pleasant, when our friends are rich
To meet them day by day,
Or good or ill no matter which,
Provided they can pay;
But there is one—you answer me!—
Who would or could avouch
Esteem for one who hadn't got
A dollar in his pouch?

'Tis pleasant with our friends to dine,
To see them well arrayed,
To hang on them in costly wine
For which themselves have paid,
To smoke with them, to drive about
Ebaro cup, caress and couch—
But could we know a man without
A dollar in his pouch?

The bride will love the pleading swain,
Who holds at his command
A handsome house, a goodly train
Of equipage and land;
But should his fortune cease to smile,
From love away will slouch,
Why don't the creature show a pile
Of dollars in his pouch?

On sea, on shore, they seem to say
He is rich and won't be dull
The gold within his port monnaie,
They think can fill his skull
Let mammon reign, let genius rot,
Let wit, love, valor crouch!
Poor devil! if he has not got
A dollar in his pouch

If Christ again should visit earth,
A man of toil and care,
However divine, whatever his worth,
How, think you, would he fare?
Hence with this vagrant! thrust Him out!
Some swindler I dare vouch;
Think you God's son would come without
A dollar in his pouch?

Eastern Insane Asylums.

We make the following selections from interesting letters from Dr. J. C. Hawthorne, of this city, who has recently made a somewhat extended tour of inspection through various asylums of the Eastern States

THE M'LEAN INSANE ASYLUM.

I arrived at Boston in the night, which time I think is best for a stranger to land there, as he will then give himself up to the tender mercies and direction of some kind John If, however, one lands in a new city in day time, there is nothing more natural than to feel a desire to stir around, if for nothing else than to satisfy himself that he can find the way, wherever he inclines to go Of all cities the "hub" is the most unpromising for the practical development of such ideas.

Next morning I found my way to the McLean Insane Asylum, where I met Dr. John C. Tyler, the superintending physician, who gave me all the information that I could desire, and showed me much kindness. I visited and looked at everything of interest, both in the houses and on the grounds. They have forty acres of ground on which the buildings stand, and lease eighty more a short distance off, for the purposes of farming The Asylum grounds proper are newly laid out, and ornamented with shade trees and shrubbery The institution is owned and governed by a small private corporation. Some of the older portions of the buildings were originally intended for other purposes, and are not as convenient as they might be, lacking many of the late improvements. The old part, however, is soon to be torn down and replaced by one, large, well constructed wings. The estimated expense for this addition is $300,000, and when completed the building will accommodate but sixty patients. One wing, recently built, accommodates seventeen patients, and cost $50,000. The wing to be erected will contain all the offices, reception rooms, etc., which adds so largely to its cost. Two new wings have recently been built which have all the modern improvements for heating and comfort. The workmanship is neat and plain, but very substantial When the plans adopted for the new buildings are completed, this will be one of the finest institutions in the United States, It would seem to be pretty extravagant to us who live on the Pacific coast, to expend such vast sums of money for a home for two hundred insane persons, and yet the State or the community here, that is unprovided with good, and even extravagantly fine buildings for this class of their citizens, is looked upon as lacking in its duty.

The average number of patients is two hundred, in equal proportion of each sex. In this number there are seventy-two cases with decided suicidal tendency. This would seem to be entirely disproportionate, but I find that this tendency is remarkably prevalent in all the asylums I have visited. The cases discharged, including those who have died, will average something less than fifty per cent. during the last year, and this, Dr. Tyler considers very fair, when we take into consideration that they have such a number of old incurable cases. The cost of maintaining each patient per week for the past year was $12 50 exclusive of clothing. The patients are generally of a better class than are found in State institutions, most of them having received liberal educations and been accustomed to good living and refined society. Their food and clothing is, therefore, somewhat better than is usual in such places, although the diet used is generally nutritious it is entirely plain. In the medical treatment they have nothing new, or more than is known and practiced by all engaged in this special department. They resort to bodily restraint whenever it is deemed best for the patient, having no false notions on this subject, if in their judgment there is a necessity for the same. Here as in all well conducted asylums, the end aimed to be accomplished is restored physical health, and when this is improved quietude of mind. To produce these results amusements and exercise seem to be largely depended upon.

I was very much pleased with Dr. Tyler who is in every way well adapted to his place, and his services are fully appreciated by those who control the institution

HARTFORD RETREAT FOR THE INSANE.

I must refer in this letter to Hartford and the Asylum there. The city contains some 40,000 people; and is one of the most prosperous and thriving towns of New England. The improvements look new, and everything appears to wear a freshness and beauty that is not generally seen in other cities. The prosperity of Hartford, like most towns and cities of this section, depend principally upon the manufacturing establishments located there.

The Hartford Retreat for the Insane is located at the outer edge, or circumference, of the city The ground on which it stands is high and beautifully sloping in all directions from its crest. They have twenty-three acres of ground surrounding the Asylum, all beautifully covered with grass and dotted with shade trees and shrubbery. This institution has been established forty-two years, and from a small and insignificant private charity, has grown from year, to year until, at the present time, there are 240 patients who find a home where their wants are relieved and, so far as may be, their cracked and disjointed minds restored to reason. These buildings are extensive, but from the fact of their being erected by piece meal, and without a general plan having been adopted at first, are not so complete in their appointments as the more modern structures. Notwithstanding all this, they possess many conveniences and are quite well adapted to the object in view. Dr. J. S. Butler, who has been the Superintending Physician for twenty-three years, is a gentleman whose whole soul is in the work, and I have my doubts if any one could make more out of the means at his disposal for the cure of his patients and the amelioration of their many little woes. The cost for each patient per week is about seven dollars, exclusive of clothing The percentage of absolute cures are less for the past year than fifteen, but taking all those discharged, and including the deaths, it is about thirty-five per cent. If I am not mistaken we have been more successful than this up to 1864, and yet this Asylum is considered one of the most successful institution of the country, and enjoys a very high standing in the community. Dr. Butler, as you know, is esteemed one of the leading men in this special department of medicine, and his opinion is looked to with the utmost respect by the whole profession The institution owns a farm a short distance from the buildings, where they find employment for all those who are in a mental or bodily condition to be benefited by such exercise

Every Asylum that I have visited, and indeed it is a universal rule, and considered by all those having charge of such matters, as a necessity stands upon ground sufficiently elevated to afford perfect drainage, besides being more salubrious and cheerful California is the only exception of which I have any knowledge, and that stands in a low, flat plain, which, in the winter season, may very appropriately be denominated a bog. It is utterly impossible to effect the proper and perfect drainage so essential to an institution of this character, and it has always been a matter of wonder and astonishment to me by what unfortunate chance or design it came to find a resting place there when so many beautiful locations might have been had for the selection. In the bustle and excitement incident to the early days of California there may be found an excuse for this improper location of so very important a State institution, but sure there can not be any such excuse offered, or reason assigned, at this late day, when every one is supposed to be familiar with the ordinary laws which govern health, and especially of aggregated bodies of men and women

The Hartford Asylum is larger than that at Stockton, and yet they complain of being crowded with 240 while the other accommodates 700. The treatment in this institution differs in no essential from that adopted by all the others The food and clothing are such as are usually considered ample, and of such a quality as to conduce to the bodily health and vigor of the inmates.

UTICA ASYLUM.

I spent a day in examining the asylum at Utica, New York, under charge of Dr Gray. I regret to say that the Doctor was not at home, he having gone to Washington to attend a meeting of the Superintendents Dr Cleveland the 1st Assistant, kindly gave me all desired information and showed me through the institution

This is really the only State institution in New York for the treatment of ordinary and recent cases It is entirely inadequate to the numbers of insane in the State They are overcrowded, and although the buildings are immense, and provided with every adjunct for the treatment and care of the inmates, yet the demand for another asylum is loud, and must soon be heard and acted upon At present they have 610 patients the sexes being about equal in numbers This institution was founded in 1843 and has been in very successful operation since that period The institution stands high in the estimation of the public, and deservedly so, I think under the intelligent supervision and control of so able a man as Dr Gray is admitted to be

The buildings are put up in the form of a square with a court in the center This court is not used for any purpose but a passage way, and is ornamented with shade trees and grass. The pleasure grounds are not so extensive as I had expected to see. Indeed, there is but little that can properly be so called They have a very fine hot house, filled with beautiful and fragrant flowers Two hundred acres of ground belong to the institution, and they cultivate most of it in grasses and vegetables The patients, when in a suitable condition, are encouraged to work as pastime and also as a curative measure The medical treatment is, without material modification, the same as that practiced in all the other well regulated asylums The grand object being to improve the general health of the patients, each case of course receives that special medication which it appears to require, and a routine practice is avoided as much as possible, although this must necessarily always be the case to a great degree when cases have so many characteristics in common. The food is plain and good, served up to them in a clean and neat style The clothing is comfortable but common, both in make and texture. In a word, there is no one thing here that may not be found in any well regulated State institution. The buildings are large and roomy, and are capable of accommodating about 500 patients, and yet I believe they have very nearly double the room that the California Asylum has, where more patients are pent up They say it would be larger only for the large number of chronic cases, and yet they send very many back to the county poor houses after their cases appear to be hopeless The Asylum stands on quite a hill, just in the edge of the city, and commands a very fine view of the surrounding country.

INSANE HOSPITAL AT DIXMONT.

I have visited the Western Pennsylvania Insane Hospital at Dixmont, situated eight miles below Pittsburg, on the north side of and near the Ohio river. The ground of this institution comprises three hundred acres of broken and hilly land, much of which can be made available for agriculture, grazing, &c The view from this place is extended and beautiful, taking in the cities above, and the river and country for many miles on every side. They now have 210 patients, and the present buildings causes them to be crowded to an injurious degree. The directors of the institution are engaged in the erection of an additional structure which will complete the original plan of the buildings on the west, leaving for the future the completion of the other wing on the east When this whole building is finished, it will be a noble structure 760 feet long, and will accommodate from 350 to 400 patients I met the Executive Committee of the directors there, and was much pleased with them. These men are among the most wealthy and respectable men of the city. They informed me, that including the cost of the addition now being built, they will have expended something over $400,000, and that the whole cost of the institution, when completed, will exceed $600,000. This is a private institution, but the State has generously appropriated the money necessary for building purposes, and also all deficiencies to meet expenses from year to year. Doctor Reed, the Superintendent, was absent at Washington, but Doctor Grayson, his assistant, kindly showed me around and gave me all the information which I desired.

This asylum was occupied for the first time in 1862, the patients having been kept before that time at an institution situated in the 9th Ward of the city of Pittsburg, but owing to the improper location, and the inadequate accommodations, it was found necessary to provide a better place, and with a handsome donation from the lady whose name it bears, this site was selected and the improvements immediately commenced. The cost of each patient per week, exclusive of clothing and burial expenses, is between five and six dollars The percentage of actual cures was a fraction over 12, and the percentage of those discharged was 37, in the last year. Owing to the hilly character of the land, and the newness of the place, they are not as forward in their farming operations as most of the asylums I have visited. They are also deficient in pleasure grounds and shade trees, but these will all be provided in due time, no doubt, and when fully completed will make one of the largest and best institutions of the country. The food and clothing furnished to patients do not vary from that of other well regulated establishments of a similar character. The medical treatment is the most approved, differing in nothing essential, and only varying from that of all others to suit the particular views of the physician in charge in some of the minor details. Indeed there is nothing in the treatment of these poor beings worthy of being known but what every well informed medical man who is specially engaged in ministering to the "mind diseased" is familiar with. New remedies soon become well known and are fully tested in all the asylums. Unfortunately for suffering humanity but very few of the new systems prove really valuable, and as a consequence those that have been in use for many years still maintain their places in the list of curative or palliative remedies

The greatest objection which I find here is the want of exercise for the inmates The lack of pleasure grounds and indeed any kind of ground where the insane can enjoy the open air, except walking around with the wardens, is a serious one, as is also the want of bodily exercise such as can be had by moderate labor on a farm These wants will all be supplied, however, in course of time, and the patients will be the better for it The fact is so well established that bodily exercise and diversion of the mind constitute a considerable part of the curative treatment for the insane, no institution of the high character and well established reputation of this one will be long without affording these means.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE LUNATIC HOSPITAL.

After visiting the asylum near Pittsburg I went to Harrisburg and examined the Pennsylvania State Lunatic Hospital, Dr Curwin, Superintendent, and Dr Welstling, Assistant The number of patients in this hospital I found to be three hundred and ten, the sexes being nearly equal, as is the case generally in asylums I have visited In this institution, although the buildings are large and well arranged, they have no spare room in the establishment at the present time. The only restraint used here is dark rooms, where the boisterous and unmanageable are confined until their excitement passes away I do not approve of this mode of restraint in general, and believe that there are other means more humane and conducive to their ultimate recovery Dark rooms in some cases, are certainly proper, and it is well to be provided with a few for some particular class of cases But few Asylums resort to this mode of restraint for ordinary unruly patients, preferring some other simple form that will not be injurious to their general health.

The farm and grounds belonging to the Asylum consists of 130 acres of rich and well cultivated land The pleasure grounds are nicely laid out and planted with shade trees and shrubbery The grounds are elevated and command a fine view, the Asylum buildings standing on the highest point. Those patients whose mental and bodily condition will warrant it, are exercised moderately by work on the farm The farm is made to yield more than enough of many vegetables to supply their necessities, and the surplus is sold in the market The location and adornment of the grounds are fully equal, if not surpassing, that of any institution I have seen Good substantial food and comfortable clothing is used, and the establishment is kept clean and well ventilated In the construction of the buildings and the general treatment of the inmates, there is nothing essentially different from other institutions I have already referred to In examining the report for 1865 I find the percentage of absolute cures to be a fraction over nine and the percentage of discharged, including all thirty two In the New York State Lunatic Asylum at Utica, for the same year, the percentage of cures was a little more than twelve, and of all discharged, a fraction more than thirty-three. So far as I have given this subject attention, I find that the absolute cures in the best Asylums will range from ten to sixteen per cent., and of all discharged, including deaths, those improved and those unimproved, it will range from thirty to forty per cent. It must be remembered, in this connection, that in all or nearly all of the Asylums, the old cases are removed to make room for the more recent cases which ought to give an increased per centage of cures

The subject of insanity and of providing proper retreats for the insane, is occupying the attention of many of the best and most wealthy men in the States, and to judge from present indications I should say that the future will be more fruitful of good to this pitiable class of people as the past few years has been Last year a small pox epidemic raged in this hospital and proved fatal to a number of cases, both to patients and employees With this exception the health of the inmates has been remarkably good, there having seldom been a case of serious illness from acute disease for some time back

I have now visited seven of the largest and most noted Asylums in the United States, and notwithstanding they possess many advantages in the elegance and convenience of their structures I can truly say that in point of comfort and curative results I honestly believe that we are fully equal to the best of them This, I know is saying a great deal, and I feel some pride in making the assertion when I consider that less than four years ago the State of Oregon had no provision for the care and treatment of her insane citizens

The Magic Stove.

[From Chambers Journal]

I do not quite remember, as some persons injuriously stated, the very first lottery that was ever drawn in England, for that occurred, I believe in the reign of Charles II, who lived before my time but I have bought many a lottery ticket ere the beginning of this century. Nobody with any pretence to middle age can have the least idea of the interest which the drawings excited, nor of the wide spread mischief which they occasioned in almost every rank of life. It makes me smile to hear modern folks talk of the evils of the turf as compared with the gambling mania that at one time seized the people of this country and was fostered and encouraged by their own government Why I can call to mind distinctly the existence of lottery tailors, lottery staymakers, lottery wine-merchants people of every trade in short, who offered their customers, in addition to the goods they had to sell, the chance of gaining some stake in the great State gambling game They gave you a note of hand with a certain number on it and if that turned up a prize, you were to receive one hundred pounds, sixty pounds, five pounds, as the case might be There was an eating house in Wych street, Strand, where the expenditure of sixpence upon a plate of roast beef might possibly put twenty guineas in your pocket; nay, there was a stall at the bottom of the Haymarket where lottery oysters and lottery sausages could be bought for a few half pence, and there was no knowing what reward you might not get for having patronised that humble establishment. As for the magazines, which I perceive have lately been offering money prizes to people for subscribing to them, you could scarcely purchase a periodical in those days which did not offer you a fraction of a chance of getting a much greater profit out of it than could be gleaned from the literature it contained; although I am bound to say I never met with a reader who had been so fortunate as to be enriched thereby

No. 28,310— you think it strange, perhaps, that I should recollect the exact figures, but when you get as old as I am you will find that you remember such things very well—that number, I say, made a great noise in its time. not because it came up a prize, but on account of the singularity of the proposal of it. It had been given to a young married lady, who was in an interesting condition, as a present to the expected offspring and the child (a girl) was born only a few hours before it was drawn, a dowry for her of ten thousand pounds. Birthday gifts and New Year's presents were not to be purchased in such variety as they are now, and a lottery ticket, or a portion of one, was then a very common gift, and though, generally speaking, you could not give a worse one, for either it turned out to be quite valueless, or, if otherwise, bred in the fortunate recipient an unquenchable desire for trying his luck again and again. Less than a sixteenth share might not be sold by the licensed office keepers, but of course that little legal difficulty could be easily got over by mutual agreement, and the consequence was that no man's degree was so humble but that he could obtain an interest in the Wheels of Fortune, which, like those of the car Juggernaut, crushed beneath them hundreds, nay, thousands of devotees The stupid superstition which now obtains at whist clubs and the like, of this or that man being "lucky," or the reverse, was then almost universal, and was sustained by one or two exceptional instances. Nay, there was only one, I believe, which could be proved upon any good authority, and the very frequency of its citation might have convinced sane people—but these were mad—of the excessive rarity of the example. I allude to the celebrated case of Mr. Cappadocia. A few years before I was born, this gentleman, who was a rich Jew broker of the city, drew a prize of ten thousand pounds, and within a very few months he drew another of exactly the same value. This marvelous good fortune caused a certain correspondent of his, who believed in "lucky" men, to ask Cappadocia to buy a ticket for him, and this also turned out a prize of ten thousand pounds. Afterwards, Mr. Cappadocia got even still more money than this by acting as the agent of others; but the vein of this luck was, I suppose, worked out, for they never got anything but blanks for the rest of his life.

It was the same with my good father, who could have told you a hundred stories about it, and was indeed, I am sorry to say, a regular victim at the shrine of fortune for all his life For twenty years he had annually purchased a whole ticket without seeing a sixpence of his money back, but at last he wisely determined to stop, without sending more good money after bad Yet, as the first day's drawing came near in that one and twentieth year, I could see that my parent's prudence was not by any means giving him the satisfaction that it deserved. His friends and neighbors were buying tickets upon all hands, and speculating on their chances of success "Well," one would say, I think, sir, your turn must come round this time," and another would hope to see him repaid for all his losses by this single coup. I say it annoyed him to have to answer: "I have bought no ticket, I never mean to try again," and when some gossip would rally him about his faintheartedness and want of courage, it quite ruffled his ordinarily excellent temper. Still he stuck to his resolution until the very Saturday before the drawing—when he sent for me into his private parlor after dinner, and addressed me as follows "I have something to say to you of a singular kind, my boy. It may be of no consequence and it may be of the greatest possible importance; but however it turns out, you must promise me, upon your honor to keep it a secret as long as I live"

Of course, I gave the required security, and my good father, who sat with his handkerchief over his head in front of the huge stove—for it was winter time, and he loved warmth—continued with the greatest gravity: "You know, my boy, that I resolved upon purchasing no more lottery tickets, and that I am not a man to lightly break my resolutions Still, I am not so obstinate as to resist the manifest influences of—of—I hardly know what to call it, or who it comes from, but the fact is —— Just look the door will you?"

Here I cast an involuntary glance towards the bottle of hollands which always stood at my father's right hand after dinner, although I had never known him to be overtaken by liquor before

"No, no, it's not that, Joshua," said he, divining my thoughts; "although, when you have heard me out I shall not blame you for thinking anything so singular as the experience I have to narrate I feel 'led,' my boy, as your Aunt Dorcas calls it, absolutely enjoined by a higher power, to purchase No 472"

"When Aunt Dorcas wants to do anything whatever, she always says she feels 'led,'" replied I drily.

"Yes of course I want to buy a ticket, although against my better judgment, that is true but why should I set my mind upon this No 472?"

I was an opinionated young dog in those days, and did not feel so much touched by my father's confidence as to prevent me from shrugging my shoulders

He colored a little, but with great good nature repeated his question

"Well perhaps you dreamed it, sir," returned I, "like Mrs Fosboy."

This was a poor widow lady who lived in the next street, and who had dreamed three times running of a lucky number in the lottery, and had borrowed the money of my father wherewith to purchase the ticket

"No, my boy," replied my father, (but with a perceptible wince, for the said number had turned out a blank both for her and for him) "I did not exactly dream it but it happened thus You know that I have had this stove set up here but a few days ago and used it for the first time on Thursday last Upon that very evening, when I had come in here as usual after dinner, and having read the paper, had dozed off for an hour or two I awoke, and behold in the centre of this iron door, which, as you see, has nothing upon it whatsoever, in letters and figures of fire, No 472! I was wide awake by this time, and I am as certain as ever I was of anything in my whole life, that the thing was as I have told you However, so distrustful was I of myself—for I know how the lottery occupies my mind, and I confess I had been dreaming of it at that very time —that I said nothing about it, but waited for the next night, when I give you my sacred word of honor that the same thing happened again. Once more I dreamed of the lottery, and upon waking, with my feet upon the stove once more I saw No 472 glowing forth out of its iron door like some mysterious warning, or perchance a ——"

"Or a providential intimation as to how to lay out our money to the best advantage," suggested I demurely

"Well yes of course it's very odd, looked at in that light, but I've been thinking of it a good deal in the meantime, and the ticket office is not yet closed, so I will just trouble you my boy, to step out and purchase for me, without saying a word about it, No —"

"My dear father," interrupted I, "of course I have no right to dictate to you — —"

"Don't do it, then," returned the old gentleman curtly "Just take this money and don't say a word to anybody but if No 472 is on hand bring it, and if it's sold find out who has got it, and bring the word I will have it, whatever it costs me, and if that ticket does not come up a prize, I will never spend a silver sixpence again in flattery of the jade Fortune"

As my father had threatened this for eighteen successive years it did not give me great hopes of his reformation, while my expectations of the ticket in question turning out a prize were equally low, However there was no course for me but to obey. It was late, but being the Saturday before the drawing, the offices were allowed to be open until after 8 p m so if the ticket should be unsold, I could get it that night It was however, not at all probable that this should be the case, and I was not surprised to learn that No 472 had been purchased by a gentleman living in the country—or what was then the country about half a mile north of Kensington Palace My father seemed very disappointed when I took him this news and wishing me good night retired to his private room saying that he had some business to transact which would occupy him until very late.

I had been in bed and asleep I know not how long, when I was awakened by hearing the front door closed (although as softly as it could be done), and thinking there might be something wrong, I hurried on a few clothes, and slipped down stairs! My father's hat and greatcoat were not hanging in their usual places, so I felt certain it was he who had just gone out nor had I far to look for the reason, for the door of his private room was open and I could see from the hall the magic stove before which he had been sitting, with No 472 gleaming from the iron door, as he had truly described them, in letters and figures of flame It was evident that my father had been unable to resist this third manifestation, but had hurried off to Kensington to knock the gentleman up, and buy his ticket whether he would or not Under such circumstances, what a price would he have to pay for it! At the same time, I could scarcely blame him I had now the evidence of my own eyes to corroborate his extraordinary experience. Here was No 472 glaring and gleaming out of an iron door, which was ordinarily as blank as a—I was going to say a lottery ticket, but I avoided that metaphor as an ill omen! Yes, there was the N, and the O, and the 4 and the 7, and the 2, as distinct as the red letters in the calender There was certainly something in it, and I determined to wait up until my father came home to tell him what I myself had seen The worst of it was that the coals in the scuttle were exhausted, and that after an hour or so—and I knew that he must be a long time away—the room would probably be getting cold. In this surmise I was correct; but as the stove waxed cooler and cooler, something far more disagreeable than cold supervened. I saw that the magic letters waned and waned as the fire within got low, and long before it went out, they had grown quite black and invisible, then the truth gleamed upon me, chill and bare enough. The wonderful inscription was, after all, only the number of the stove, inscribed upon it by the Iron Company that sold it, but which could not be seen, without very close inspection, until it became of a white heat.

I dared not sit up for my father any longer, nor had I the heart to tell him when he explained to me the next day how fortunate he had been in purchasing the ticket for only three times the cost price how woefully he had been deceived.

"And I suppose, father, that this number turned out to be a blank?"

"No, my child," replied her parent, in the much admired style of Mr. Barlow when imparting information to Sandford and Merton; "it was not so. The number turned out a prize of five hundred pounds, so that although when my father began to boast of his extraordinary prescience, I thought it right to draw his attention in private to the cause of the phenomenon, yet, judging by the result, the stove was not less a Magic Stove for all that"

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time

Medical.

DR. CHAS. H. TOZER'S PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE,

N E Cor. Jackson and Kearney Sts.,
SAN FRANCISCO

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS FORMERLY OF LOCK HOSPITAL, LONDON EIGHT YEARS IN SACRAMENTO AND THE LAST THREE YEARS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

DR. TOZER'S

Experience is of forty years standing, and during that time he has met with [illegible] success in the treatment of all those diseases generally known as

Venereal or Chronic.

It is impossible here to mention all the diseases with which he is familiar, some, perhaps, will not be out of place. The most formidable, the most destructive to mankind is [illegible] disease the whole system suffers in consequence. [illegible] here enumerated [illegible] afflicted may be able to [illegible] complaints and seek advice in time, thereby [illegible] themselves a world of suffering Nervous Debility, Loss of Memory, Pain in the Limbs and Back, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Limbs, Headache, [illegible] Aversion to Social Society, especially that of Females. There are a great many [illegible] and should [illegible] DR TOZER [illegible] out any interruption to your business—or state your case by letter, and [illegible] at the office

Stricture of the Urethra

Is another formidable enemy to health Send for one of my circulars on that disease, and inform yourself of its terrible results. The worst cases cured in a few days.

Venereal Diseases

In all their various forms, either Primary, Secondary or Hereditary completely eradicated from the system. Your constitution being restored to perfect health, there will be no danger of handing down to your children the terrible disease of Scrofula

Syphilitic Disease

As it presents itself on this coast, is of a more formidable character than that known in the Atlantic States or Europe, arising from the fact of the Lying a compound of Syphilis, Chinese and Sandwich Island disease. Those of you who have visited the two latter countries no doubt have seen the dreadful effects of it both on the native and foreign population. It requires altogether, different mode of treatment.

The Old Formulas

of Ricord, Actel and Bostwick are of little account, except to dry up the disease on the surface, leaving the poison in the blood, which sooner or later will show itself as a secondary disease in an aggravated form. Far be it. I have learned by experience, and think that I can say without boasting that I have seen more practice in these diseases than any other physician in [illegible] dating as it does from 1840. It becomes you, [illegible] to think well, before you employ a physician.

Who is the proper one to consult—an old experienced one or one who has recently settled amongst you?

My Plan is Purely Vegetable,

Destroying the disease and purifying the blood, so that there is no danger of secondary symptoms

Rheumatism, Neuralgia,

And diseases arising from the use of Mercury, such as pains in the shin bones, swelling of the different joints of the body, running sores, etc., etc., and impurities of the blood, cured in a short time by the use of my VEGETABLE MIXTURE, known only to myself.

Diseases Peculiar to Females,

Such as Hotention, Painful Menstruation, etc., etc., have been my study for a great number of years, and I can safely promise a perfect cure in a short time.

Be not deterred from calling on Dr. TOZER from delicacy or a fear of exposure, as the Doctor is a man in whom you can trust, and all cases are treated with the strictest secrecy.

My Female Pills

Are the best ever used in this climate for the Suppression of the Monthly Sickness. Every lady should have them in case of necessity. Price, $5. Consultation at the office or by letter, FREE. All letters returned or destroyed. Office hours from 9 A. M. till 8 P. M.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a [illegible] ence from the effects of secret indulgences, or have absorbed into the system! Look at their pale, [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken [illegible] tions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this world are [illegible] sands suffer until death closes the scene; [illegible] guardians, friends, attend to those who are [illegible] any of these horrible life-destroying [illegible] they are cured far and cured before it [illegible] them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study [illegible] is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important [illegible] who are afflicted, or to those who are [illegible] welfare of their friends, to be careful of [illegible] tended doctors who infest all cities, [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days, [illegible] public by using the names of celebrated [illegible] Europe and other places. Be therefore [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of [illegible] solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, [illegible] by the youth of both sexes to an almost enormous [illegible] producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by [illegible] ical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief is not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he ever cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding [illegible] a radical and permanent cure, or make [illegible]

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, [illegible] toms, length of time the disease has con[tinued] and medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

THAT OLD GREENBACK [illegible]

I am still obliged to accept of Legal Tender Notes at Par (and have been since Dec 17, 1862, for the rent of my Handsome Brick Store corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce for the benefit of the public, that

JACOB MAYER

Leased the building of me Feb. 17, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were Cash Since the date above stated, I have received the depreciated currency regularly for the rent of the making less than two-fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay; he had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin would be still getting the best bargain in the city I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of his tenant's position by using the laws of the country passed to relieve the necessities of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. He can readily see how much it costs to have such transactions costly buildings as the one referred to above.
